

Call for Papers

International Conference

Transforming Music: Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow

29-30 October 2020

Music Department of National Sun Yat-sen University

The Music Department of National Sun Yat-sen University is pleased to announce a call for papers for the International Music Conference on 29-30 October, 2020.

The purpose of the International Music Conference is to promote interaction, research and discussion among researchers, students and music industry professionals on national and international music related practices. Presenters are encouraged to address the important roles of music development in aspects of the past, today and tomorrow.

Proposal may address (but are not limited to) the following categories that fall under the topic of the conference:

- Musicology
- Women, Feminists and Music
- Performance Practice
- Museums and Collections of Instruments and Music
- Music Technology and Music Business Research

Conference languages: Chinese, English.

Proposal are invited for 20-minute individual papers and panel discussions. Abstracts of no more than 300 words should be sent in PDF format to musicology@mail.nsysu.edu.tw with the subject line: Transforming Music: Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow

The submitted file should have a filename as follows:

LASTNAME_first_title

The attachment should include the following information as well:

- Name of the author and institution affiliation
- Title of the paper
- Short biography note of the author (max. 100 words)

Important dates:

- Submission deadline: 20 April, 2020
- Notification of approval: no later than 02 May, 2020

Venue:

National Sun Yat-sen University, 70 Lian Hai Road, 804 Kaohsiung, Taiwan. Kaohsiung is a large coastal city located in the southern part of Taiwan. The city offers several popular cultural and historical attractions. One can also experience the beauty of the city through ocean and river views, local fine cuisine and street food, night markets and many other sights and activities. The city is serviced by a very good transportation system. It will be a memorable place to schedule your paper presentation.

For more information: <https://nsysu-music.weebly.com/>